

Department of Art

The Department of Art at William Jewell College offers a strong, broad-base dinterdisciplinary curriculum challenging students to develop fundamental competence and skills in a variety of media. With small class sizes and engaged faculty as a distinctive feature of the Jewell art department, students receive personal instruction and valuable feedback in sharpening skills and increasing competence in each media area. The department also offers excellent programming in preparing students for K-12 art education certification. Internships and mentoring collaborations in a variety of art-related fields are available in the Kansas City metro area and beyond. Opportunities for overseas study adds a valuable component to the major.

The Art Department at William Jewell believes that understanding practical and real-world applications within art-related fields is just as important as gaining artistic skills. Distinctive opportunities for art students beyond the classroom include:

- internships and mentorships with advertising agencies, graphic designers, museums, galleries, design firms, photographers, Hallmark, Disneyworld, and many others in the Greater Kansas City area and beyond;
- interdisciplinary program collaboration between the art and business departments;
- overseas study availability in a variety of places and disciplines;

- exposure to the premier visual arts venue in the Northland, the Stocksdale Gallery on the Jewell campus; introducing students to professional art exhibits and providing contact with visiting artist lectures and workshops;
- graduating seniors preparing their own exhibit that is put on display at our own Stocksdale Gallery;
- a prime location 20 minutes from downtown Kansas City, offering students valuable experiences and exposure to a variety of artists' studios, art galleries, art businesses, and of course, the nationally recognized Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art.

About the Major

The department offers one major and two minors. The major in art leads to a Bachelor of Arts degree. The department offers minors in Art History and Studio Art. Students majoring in art may receive certification to teach art in grades K-12 in the state of Missouri.
