

Communication & Theatre

Are you ready to find your voice?

tudents in the Department of Communication and Theatre will tell you their focus is on messages – the power of the word to transform human existence. Whether writing, analyzing, speaking or performing, our students are active communicators on campus and beyond. We seek to prepare our students to be knowledgeable, versatile, and confident in responsibly meeting the complex communication challenges of a dynamic world. Our students

- excel in forms of verbal and non-verbal expression, demonstrating proficient delivery of well-written, purposefully crafted messages;
- critically analyze acts of individual expression and effectively respond to complex communication challenges; and
- demonstrate an understanding of relevant, discipline-based theories by engaging in independent, creative, and scholarly projects.

Our students are empowered to make this happen by working closely with our outstanding faculty and through their involvement in our department activities: theatre, debate, newspaper, honor societies, pre-professional organizations, and internships.

Distinctives

Passive learning isn't possible here. Our debate team is the 2008 Missouri State Champions and the 2007 National Champions of the

(see back panel)

DEGREE PROGRAMS OFFERED:

- ◆ Organizational ◆ Communication
- ◆ Rhetoric and Political ◆ Communication
 - ◆ Theatre ◆
 - ◆ Theatre with a ◆ Communication Emphasis
- ◆ Speech Education ◆
- ◆ Theatre Education ◆
- ◆ Minor in Communication ◆
 - ◆ Minor in Theatre ◆

COMMUNICATION & THEATRE FACULTY

Gina E. Lane, Ph.D.
*Department Chair
Advising Director
Director of Debate &
Professor of Communication*

Debbie Chasteen, Ph.D.
*CTI 101 Coordinator
Director of Interns &
Professor of Communication*

Kim Bradford Harris, Ph.D.
*Director of Theatre
& Professor of Theatre*

Lois Anne Harris, Ph.D.
*Director of Prestigious Fellowships
Advisor to The Hilltop Monitor
& Professor of Communication*

Charles L. Walts, Ph.D.
*Associate Director of Debate &
Assistant Professor of Communication*

Nathan Wyman, M.F.A.
*Director of Technical Theatre and Scenographer &
Associate Professor of Theatre*

National Parliamentary Tournament of Excellence. Our integrated theatre curriculum is nationally renowned for its unique design, and our students produce, direct, cast, and design their own senior theatre performances. All of our students have the opportunity to earn academic credit for internships at advertising firms, public relations agencies, sports teams, professional theatre, media outlets, and non-profit organizations. Our award-winning weekly newspaper, The Hilltop Monitor, is the voice of Jewell students as well as the best source of news on campus. All of our seniors complete independent capstone projects: senior persuasive speaking recitals, theatre productions, and original research papers. Some of those students have gone on to present their work at regional and national scholarly conferences and workshops.

Are you ready to find your voice?
Send us an email, schedule a visit,
or call us toll free
(1-888-2-JEWELL).

www.jewell.edu