Student Development

William Jewell College approaches your learning, growth and development with intention and purpose. It is important as a Jewell student to understand the structural framework that guides your education and individual evolution.

Philosophy

William Jewell College provides students a world-class education both in and out of the classroom. While students learn critical thinking skills and consider relevant global issues in the classroom they are also challenged to develop important life skills that prepare them for life beyond college. We believe this occurs most effectively in a community immersion experience.

While Jewell embraces a highly sophisticated technology-enabled pedagogy, we recognize the demands technology places on students’ human and leadership development. Jewell follows an intentional four-year student development program that facilitates interpersonal skill growth and development.

As students travel their Jewell journey, they are presented with great responsibilities and challenges that develop and cultivate life skills, including, but not limited to, learning to live with and respect others, conflict resolution, community and civic engagement, governance, defining personal values and integrity, ethical leadership, and independence and freedoms that leads to a responsible self.

Jewell’s student development model is rooted in defined institutional character values; respect, honor, justice, community, excellence, courage, diversity, liberty and faith. These fundamental values define the William Jewell College community, who we are as an institution of higher education, and what we believe.

Co-Curricular Learning (Beyond the Classroom)

While its every student’s goal to earn a degree from William Jewell College, Jewell students experience invaluable learning outside of the classroom. Students are expected to “own” their co-curricular education which only occurs through immersion in and engaging the Jewell community. William Jewell College has defined co-curricular learning dimensions that are the framework for experiential learning beyond the classroom.

Learning outcomes are arranged in three learning domains, Knowledge & Cognition, Social Responsibility, and Personal Development (see table below). Jewell students are able to track their co-curricular learning progress through Presence (see link in the Table of Contents under Student Resources). Every aspect of Jewell’s co-curricular student experience is intentionally aligned with the learning domains and dimensions. Events in Presence are tagged with their indented learning outcome (dimension) so students can track their co-curricular educational development. Students who are intentional and diversity their co-curricular learning are better prepared for life beyond Jewell, be it starting a career or graduate school.

Character Values

Respect — Growing from our belief in the value of every person, we are committed to addressing every question with integrity and in support for everyone who participates here. Respect is demonstrated in our enthusiasm for embracing difference of all kinds in the pursuit of lives of fulfillment.

Honor — Living with honor springs from commitment to a variety of values, foremost among them being respectful of others, respect for institutions, and the embrace of the highest values of humankind. Demonstrating this fundamental attribute of character, each student, graduate, faculty and staff member will be known by their trustworthiness in thought, word and deed. William Jewell College instills the courage to honor truth at all times without equivocation or evasion and especially in difficult times when justice demands it.

Justice — Living with honor and respecting others should result in the application of justice to all aspects of our lives, particularly social justice, economic justice and ecological justice. Living a just and compassionate life should result in the development of strong communities.

Community — Our quest for a great educational experience requires us to live in community. The values of community include respect, honor and justice and the intersection of those values in the living/learning environment contribute to the development of responsible citizens who contribute to successful communities in their lives beyond the College.

Excellence — We believe in doing well in all that we do. The commitment to being outstanding in all aspects of our work requires us to work hard, to work focused on outcomes, to work together, and to judge our work according to the highest standards.

Courage — Moments great and small require courage when one’s principles or beliefs are challenged. For the College, courage is required to make decisions that reflect the values of the College over the expediency of a situation. Jewell has demonstrated courage throughout its existence as it has stood for the principles of academic freedom and institutional autonomy. Living the values listed above requires courage to make daily decisions that reflect those values.

Faith — We believe that every student is on a spiritual journey, the outcome of which must be fully owned by the student and the direction of which is determined by the student. Most often, this spiritual journey begins with the student’s specific faith background. We believe that the journey never ends, but that a Jewell education should provide opportunities both for exploring one’s faith and for embracing the faith or spiritual position that best fits the student. Jewell’s history as a Baptist institution has long provided a foundation for spiritual growth but must not limit one’s growth spiritually or intellectually. Faith sustains and supports us, both individually and collectively.

Liberty — Liberty is the conviction that individuals in community rise to the highest reach of well-being when they are able to direct the course of their own affairs. And living by such conviction entails the correlated commitment to ensure such possibility for all others in community.

Diversity/Inclusion — Diversity is all the ways in which we differ. Celebrating the fact that the human community is diverse, William Jewell College is committed to being an inclusive community that values the worth of each individual while respecting and accepting differences.

Student Advocacy

Jewell students are expected to self-advocate. Students shall have the right to assemble as long as they do not: a) violate the civil law or the college code of conduct; b) destroy property; c) disrupt classes and any other regular and essential operation of the college; or d) in any way infringe upon the rights of other individuals or organizations. Any student organization may petition for official college recognition if all of the following are true:
- its purpose is consistent with William Jewell’s mission and values;
- the group has a special purpose and/or objectives beyond mere affiliation;
- membership requirements are clearly defined and documented; and
- the group meets an area of interest not already served by an existing organization.

Leadership from the organization requesting recognition must submit an application to the Coordinator of Student Activities who shall confirm basic eligibility requirements and recommend changes regarding organizational issues. Specifics which should be addressed in this document include, but are not limited to the following:
- Name
- Membership
- Mission Statement
- Constitution
- Finances
- Affiliation (local and national)
- Principles
- Leadership (officers)
- Objectives
- Any and all advisors working with an organization

An organization’s initial and continued recognition is contingent upon the organization having an approved advisor. The approved advisor must be (1) a current employee of the College or (2) pre-approved by the Coordinator of Student Activities. The Coordinator may, in his/her sole discretion, require that an approved advisor complete training on issues concerning the organization, including, but not limited to, alcohol and drug abuse, sexual harassment and violence, campus safety. The training required will vary from organization to organization. An approved advisor’s failure to complete the required training may result in denial or revocation of the organization’s recognition.

The Coordinator of Student Activities shall present eligible applications to the Dean of Students and the Provost. Upon review, they shall recommend disposition to the Coordinator of Student Activities. He/she, in consultation with the Provost, shall grant or deny recognition status. The final document must include signatures of the organization advisor, Coordinator of Student Activities, the Dean of Students and the Provost.

Each organization will be reviewed once every year, or more often, if the Provost, Dean of Students, or Coordinator in his/her sole discretion, finds cause to believe that an organization is no longer following the mission statement in the application, does not have an approved advisor, or has fulfilled its purpose or usefulness. If such a finding is made, the organization shall file the new application for recognition which shall be processed as a new application. Recognition shall be continued while a new application is processed, unless the Provost finds that the best interests of the college require recognition to be suspended until the new application has been finally acted upon. If an organization is inactive for one year, reapplication shall be required for recognition.

The yearly review shall be made by the Coordinator of Student Activities. The review application may be found on Jewell Central online forms for Student Life anytime during the spring semester and must be returned to the Coordinator of Student Activities. With the exception of an organization’s ritual, the review process is considered public. All applications will be available for review by persons currently associated with the college. Information related to any organization’s ritual will not be made public.

The college policy regarding Recognition and Review of Student Organizations acknowledges that student groups, whether recognized by the college or not, are free to organize. They have the right to assemble “as long as they do not: a) violate the civil law or the college code of conduct, b) destroy property, c) disrupt classes and any other regular and essential operation of the college, or d) in any way infringe upon the rights of other individuals or organizations.”

If a group whose mission or purpose may be inconsistent with the mission of the college, as determined by the Provost or the Dean of Students, decides to request recognition the Provost shall appoint a committee of faculty, staff, students, and Trustees to meet with the group of students requesting recognition to hear their requests and to talk through the issues. This does not mean that College/Trustee policy would change but instead would mean that the College and Board are responding appropriately in terms of being sensitive to certain developmental needs of the students making the request while also being open to having an educationally supportive conversation about the issue.

Events Without Alcohol

In order to host an event on campus and/or off campus without alcohol, the sponsoring organization must add the event to Presence and also fill out any additional paperwork for events off campus. The Coordinator of Student Activities can provide this link upon request.

Fundraising

The Office of Advancement must formally approve all fund-raising efforts by student organizations, including both on campus events and solicitations from private businesses in the community. The fundraising form is on Jewell Central online forms. The Office of Advancement requires 30 days before a proposed date to approve. Not all events are approved due to ongoing fund-raising activities and sponsorships.

Individual vs. Student Organization Responsibility

William Jewell College is a community that exists to promote educational and academic goals. The standards of behavior set forth for students and organizations within this community may be higher than those found elsewhere in society. Upon registration or recognition by the college, each student organization becomes responsible for acting in accordance with the provisions of the Standard of Conduct and all applicable college and community policies and standards. Official college action will be taken when the behavior of the members of a student organization violates community standards and interferes either with the College’s educational purpose or with its duty to protect individual health, welfare, and property. This action will be administered through a formal hearing before the appropriate judicial body.

William Jewell College has published the following policy to ensure that leaders and members of student organizations understand and accept responsibility for the actions of their organization and all members. The following policy applies to all recognized or registered student organizations.

Student organizations may be held responsible for the acts of individual members. Acts include but are not limited to the following situations:
- when a member of an organization is violating local, state, or federal law or college regulations and other members present, by failing to discourage such activity, tacitly condone the behavior;
- when the acts grow out of or are directly related to the student organization’s activities or an environment created by the organization;
- when the acts are those of guests of an organization, or by persons authorized or perceived to represent themselves as connected with the organization;
- when an organization places prospective members in a subordinate status prior to achieving full membership, or imposes any kind of probationary period prior to full membership, and hazing occurs.

Liability on the part of the student organization may be mitigated if members of the organization take reasonable steps to prevent infractions of College regulations by their fellow members. Such steps will usually include clear establishment of standards (preferably in writing), documented education of members as to the standards established and documented endorsement of standards when violations occur. The specific steps necessary to avoid this liability (or to mitigate consequences) will vary according to the circumstances of the situation, the seriousness of the behavior, and the possible harms that could have arisen from the behavior. When more serious behavior and harm is in question, the student organization has the duty to take clear and firm action that is reasonably calculated to prevent and/or stop the behavior in question.

Every member of any student organization is obligated to respond to the conduct of other members when those members engage in behavior, which violates the law or college and/or organizational policies. The degree to which an organization is responsible for the activity of its members is not necessarily dependent upon the number of members engaging in the activity but depends upon whether the activity is related to the organization as described in the four previously mentioned categories, in contrast to being the private activity of individuals who happen to be members. The factors to be considered include whether the activity is one normally considered part of student organization life and whether the atmosphere in the particular organization encourages or condones the particular group activity of the members. It is the duty of every organization to create an atmosphere that makes misconduct during its activities inconsistent with membership in the organization.

The duty described in the previous paragraph applies not only to members who are directly involved in the activity, but also to passive participants and members who have knowledge of the activity. For example, a member who knows about and protects the identities of members involved in illicit activities can be held culpable for the misconduct. All members must be on notice that their misdeeds may result in the sanctioning of their student organization through the appropriate judicial body. In addition to the group being held culpable, members and officers may be cited and held responsible as individuals for their roles.

In summary, William Jewell College’s policy is that every student organization member has the duty to take all reasonable steps necessary to prevent infractions of college rules growing out of or related to the student organization. This policy pertains, but is not limited to, incidents involving hazing, vandalism, theft, alcohol, or substance abuse, dishonesty, disorderly conduct, violence, misuse of organizational and/or College funds or any violation of Title IX policies. Title IX violations will be referred to the Title IX Coordinator. Specific policies governing student behavior are listed in the Standard of Conduct.

Student Organization Disciplinary Procedures
The College Conduct Committee (CCC) is solely responsible for the adjudication of student organization policy violations separate from Greek related discipline. The Greek Judicial Council (GJC) is solely responsible for the adjudication of Greek Organization policy violations. However, in the event that a Greek organization’s actions call for organizational recognition to be reviewed, the College Conduct Committee (CCC) may call for a recognition review of organizational status in conjunction with the actions of the GJC. Alleged violations of Title IX policy will be referred to the Title IX Coordinator. Specific policies governing student behavior are listed in the Standard of Conduct.

Greek Life
Fraternities and sororities are independently chartered social organizations recognized by William Jewell College as a viable part of the educational tradition. Guidelines for student affiliation with any Greek organization are established by the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils and are subject to administrative approval.

Students living in Greek housing are subject to all residential policies as well as their respective National/International policies and guidelines. Students living in these areas are expected to adhere to all residential guidelines and the Standard of Conduct. First-Year students (students completing their first full year at the College) are not eligible to reside in Greek housing until the fall of their sophomore year.

If college regulations are not enforced and/or violations of policy are tacitly condoned, the Greek Judicial Council (GJC) may call for a disciplinary hearing and/or review of organizational status. The Board of Trustees gives Student Life administrators the responsibility to share any information related to alleged violations with the GJC.

William Jewell College reserves the right to prohibit a student from living in Greek housing due to the student’s disciplinary history. The William Jewell College Greek system has set minimum academic standards for activation and continued membership. According to National Panhellenic guidelines, only full-time students with a minimum 2.50 grade point average (GPA) may become active members in sororities at William Jewell. All fraternity men must have a minimum GPA of 2.50 in order to become an active member. Additionally, all Greek system members (both men and women) must maintain a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.50 for continued membership. All Greek residents must maintain a 2.50 cumulative grade point average (GPA) and maintain full-time status with a minimum of 12 credit hours per semester.

In accordance with national fraternity and sorority policy, William Jewell College prohibits any physical or mental harassment of students as part of pledging or initiation procedures for any student organization. All new member education programs must be outlined and provided to the Office of Student Life prior to the start of each academic year. In addition, all initiation week times and activities shall be registered with the Office of Student Life.

Group social behavior where alcohol or illegal substances are present is a major concern, not only of the college staff, but also of the national officers of each fraternity and sorority. It is expected that Greek organizations adhere to all risk management guidelines; federal, state, and local laws; William Jewell College policies; and individual chapter policies outlined by the National/International headquarters. It is the responsibility of the officers of the organization and alumni advisors to ensure compliance.

Student Publications
As an institution of higher learning, William Jewell College is committed to the highest professional and academic standards. The endeavors of all who choose to associate with the college are expected to reflect a serious commitment to these obligations.

Accordingly, it is expected that student publications adhere to the rules of professional journalism, avoiding libel, pornography and invasion of privacy. Editorial, news features or advertising columns shall not encourage the breaking of any William Jewell College policy or local, state and/or federal laws. Dissent and criticism, while an acceptable dimension of the educational experience, are to be phrased with courtesy and respect and are to be presented in a responsible manner. Additionally, freedom of expression is not interpreted to include the public use of obscene language or profane expression.

Non-college sponsored publications by individual students or student groups are of an unofficial nature. Distribution of unofficial publications is not permitted on campus.
